Alfacom is one of the leading developer of hardware solutions for the industrial internet of things market. Alfacom equipment is a set of modular interfaces that can help connect devices to industrial applications like: security, surveillance, asset tracking, robotics, machine-to-machine communications, work planning, inventory, and more. Since the beginning, Alfacom has been a leading force in this expanding market for device-to-device communications and has developed the industry's first xBee-compatible solutions.

Today's generation of wireless serial sensors and controllers are very power hungry and require 100% battery life for many years.

Alfacom brings a wealth of proven technologies to these challenging applications, including super power efficient digital signal processors, low-power ARM and x86-based microcontrollers, and innovative low power wireless transceivers.

In addition, these products are designed to provide ease of integration into the customer's on-site wireless infrastructure, making them a familiar addition to the existing infrastructure rather than a disruptive change. With the Alfacom portfolio of solutions, customers will leverage the same on-site standard wireless network they use today while taking advantage of off-site devices' long battery life. Alfacom's broad portfolio also includes solutions for IP-based communications as well as solutions for short-range, radio frequency (RF) wireless communications. These two types of connectivity are used in numerous industries for a variety of applications, including asset tracking, tracking and tracing, surveillance, asset visualization, and many others. For more information on these and other solutions, please visit: The Alfacom brand is a leading developer of device-to-device communications and high performance wireless communications solutions for the industrial internet of things market. Alfacom's broad portfolio of solutions are critical for integrating Internet-enabled devices into the industrial, telecommunication, and consumer electronics markets.

Alfacom's broad portfolio consists of an extensive range of industry-leading wireless devices, wireless standards, and IP connectivity products. These solutions are designed to increase the range, reduce battery life, and provide intelligent routing and device status for industrial applications.

In addition, Alfacom manufactures and markets advanced, highly-integrated wireless transceivers for IP-based communications and RF wireless communications solutions. Visit Alfacom on the Web at: (C) 2014 Alfacom, All 3e33713323
